

We extend a very warm welcome to our guest speaker today Pastor Paul Cho, the senior pastor of Chino Valley Chinese SDA Church.

Today's Offering is for is for Our Own Church Budget.

Taking inventory. For businesses and enterprises whose fiscal year coincides with the calendar year, the first week of January is crucial.

On a personal level, the beginning of the year is an opportune time for the Christian to take a "spiritual inventory." This is what happened at the end of each Hebrew year, in conjunction with the Day of Atonement. The Bible records it this way: "And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 'Also the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the Day of Atonement. It shall be a holy convocation for you; you shall afflict your souls, and offer an offering made by fire to the LORD" (Lev. 23:26, 27, NKJV). The NIV renders "afflict your souls" as "deny yourselves." It refers to a special time of fasting, prayer, and no doubt self-examination.

How did I handle my stewardship obligations last year? How will I handle them this year? May we not only give liberally for today's offering, but this very week lay out a plan of systematic giving for ourselves and our families for 2018.
